ENERGY AND THE SPACE PEOPLE

It was certainly interesting to read in the transcript of George Van Tassel's talk in New Zealand (the part published in this issue) that President Eisenhower was going to announce the truth about space visitors in 1955 but was persuaded not to by Winston Churchill, and that Van Tassel agreed with this course of action. Certainly it would seem that energy interests are a major cause of the silence campaign and the misinformation put out to give the current false impression of the Solar System and the universe. Adamski knew this only too well when he advised Basil van den Berg not to immediately publicise his discovery of a propulsion system found from the diagrams of the footprints of the Venusian that he had met on the Californian desert in 1952, but to diffuse copies of the plans to as many different places as possible. Possibly it will not be until interests are weakened by the increasing scarcity of fossil fuels that we will experience the benefits of the space people's experience, and finally realise the truth about life, the universe and everything.

Talk by George Van Tassel, Auckland, November 1976.

Russell Thorby introduced the speaker:

George Van Tassel was born at Jefferson, Ohio in 1910. He is a UFO contactee and wrote several books on the subject in the 1950s. Mr Van Tassel has appeared on 409 radio and television shows, and has given 297 lectures in the United States and Canada. He has been married for 38 years and has three daughters and thirteen brilliant grandchildren. ...Designer, author, inventor, lecturer, radio and television personality, and airport operator...His success in every undertaking throughout his life qualifies him in experience beyond the level of average acceptance, as an authority on varied subjects. Since the 1950s George has been engaged in Magnetic experiments under the direction of Space Intelligences.

Part 3

This whole program started with a UFO landing at my Airport, and as I said, I've been in the Flight Test business. When I went to the desert I didn't believe in astrology, in psychics, in mediums - I didn't believe in any of the occult phenomena or the mental ability to do anything other than material things. Since then, I've learned a lot! So my contact with the UFO led to the whole research. Today our corporation has expanded - we collaborate with about five other researchers in the United States who are doing bench work along the same lines as we did many years ago. Concerning the UFO programme - people always ask the same question: "Why are they here?" The appearance and sightings, in any great number, came about after we started our first atom bomb. Up until that time, those people out there realised that we were rather harmless - we fought wars and killed each other, but we didn't endanger the Solar System.

Every atom in everything is in resonance with other atoms, and every cell is in resonance with other cells, and we, as people, are in resonance with one another. The only thing is that our resonance in thought communication is dormant because we have never activated it. If you want to communicate in thought with someone else you have to do as you do when you play the piano or become a good bowler or tennis player - you have to practise and then it will develop. There isn't anyone who doesn't have this ability, but because we've never used it, we've never had it. We say some people are psychic. That is only because they may be a little more developed than people who aren't psychic. Actually, if we were able to communicate by thought, we would have a Heaven on Earth because you could walk up to someone and say "Hi, buddy" and pat him on the shoulder and he wouldn't believe you if he was thinking something else. You couldn't hide the real intention behind the words. That is the trouble with the world today - in the confusion of languages, the translation of languages, the thoughts from it of hypocrisy, and stating things that you don't really mean - you're thinking something entirely different. So, thought communication could make it possible for the entire World to communicate without any languages.

That is the prime purpose for these people being here - because we've developed atomic energy. They don't use atomic energy - they use electro-static magnetic energy. The United States Government has a little group of investigators in the Government - not the Congressmen or Senators, and not the Air Force as the Air Force, but a small portion of it and a small portion of the Navy. Those advanced researchers know the answer to the UFO subject and they have done since 1954. The UFO that landed near Aztec, New Mexico is the one that Frank Scully wrote the book about - Behind the Flying Saucers. If you haven't read that book, it is probably very difficult to obtain now. Frank named captains and majors, admirals and generals, and everybody connected with it was hauled back to Wright-Patterson Airfield in Dayton Ohio and studied. That was in 1948. By 1956, the United States Government had copied that ship to the point where they were experimentally flying UFOs or anti-gravity ships.

A lot of people in some of the books say, "If we could just capture one of those things we could find out about anti-gravity". They already know about it! Dr Biefeld demonstrated it in Germany and later Townsend Brown worked with him, and today that effect is called the "Biefeld-Brown effect" It is known only in the inner circles of the scientific field, and the Military. I gave a lecture at the California Institute of Technology, to a graduating class of 400 electronics engineers, and in the course of the talk I asked, "How many of you are familiar with the Biefeld-Brown Effect?" Not one hand went up! Now, there were something that was discovered in 1923 and our top technical colleges were not teaching it - simply because it was under security. The reason for the security on the part of Government is not because they don't want you to know - it is because they are not going to tell you. They don't care if you find out!

I gave two lectures in Washington D.C., in a hall holding 600 people all the Military in the Pentagon, and administration officials. The Secretary of the Navy, at that time, who was there with his wife, told me after the lecture, "I can't discuss this subject with you because of security, but everything you said tonight was true, especially when you said that everyone in the Government who really knows his subject is scared, because he can't do anything about it." Several times they have stated, publicly, in the Press, that UFOs - they didn't call them UFOs - 'these objects' present no danger to the security of the United States - an official Military statement! In that one sentence they admitted there were objects! Then there is the experience President Eisenhower had at Edwards Air Force Base in California. In every statement over the air I said, "If this is not true, I want Mr Eisenhower or the Government to deny it." And it was never denied - in spite of the fact that I was speaking from a 50,000 watt station in New York, which covered 25 States, and 3,500,000 people listening to that one programme. Mr Eisenhower knew the story, and he was going to inform the public on January 1, 1955, then suddenly there was a telephone call from Winston Churchill in England. Churchill said, "You'd better hold off on this one - we don't know what impact it will have on the economy," And he was very right! Because if any President or leader of any country came out and made an official statement that Space Ships from other planet were visiting Earth, he could not back down and deny it after he had said it!

"The next question from the public - especially from the scientific field - would be "What kind of power did they use to get here? Did they use rocket propulsion or atomic energy? What power did they use?" And if the Government had told what they knew, they would have said, 'Electro-static magnetic energy which requires no fuel'. Space is charged with energy - it is energy! So, suddenly overnight, we would have an official statement that they know about a power that requires no fuel. What do you think would happen to the Stock Market the next day - especially the Oil Stocks and the Power Stocks? There wouldn't be a Stock Market! The way things are today with inflation and the way the World is organized, an economic collapse of any nature would create chaos. There would be no such thing as straightening it out - we would just have millions of people starving to death, we would have riots and wars on a small scale, in all directions, So I've always said that the officials who withheld this information, because of the economic factor, did the right thing.

Our web site All the Planets are Inhabited! is at:

We have details of Daniel Ross's research into the inhabitability of the other planets in this system, accounts of some of the major contactees and the history of the STAR Fellowship, as well as links to the George Adamski Foundation and other relevant web sites.

The notion that we are alone in the Solar System is the biggest lie of the twentieth century and as we enter the new millennium it is time to realise that there are others in space with homes not impossibly distant.

The latest on circles

At the TEMS meeting in May, Andy Thomas gave a very convincing account of the corn circle mystery, with slides showing the events from the eighteenth century "mowing devil" through to the latest happenings in fields this year. Corn circle competitions and other man-made circles were shown, but while these were often quite neat, they were on a much smaller scale than most mystery circles (showing that these would take an impossibly long time for anyone to make) and never showed the intricate swirl patterns of the real thing. There were also many other individual features which seemed to preclude human manufacture, such as arcs which would have to have had their centres outside the circle in areas of untouched crop, which were undisturbed. Also there were several which, when researched, indicated the same particular date in the future, though what is indicated for that date is not clear. Others were so precise mathematically in various ways that it would seem impossible for any human hands to have constructed it during the hours of darkness and in such short periods of time. It seems certain that the glyphs are made by some intelligent agency, but Andy did not think that this was extraterrestrial visitors.

*Alan Watts, scientist and UFO researcher over many years, did not agree with this in his book UFO Quest, (published 1994) as the following extract shows. The book is thoroughly recommended; a likely source for this or any other book on our subjects of interest is Spacelink Books, 115, Hollybush Lane, Hampton, Middlesex.

Why UFOs?

The reader may well think that I have jumped the gun when I unequivocally attribute the crop designs to UFOs. The answer is that no theory fits the facts other than that the designs are being drawn by some form of electromagnetic beam controlled from an invisible UFO. It would appear from the available evidence that there may be an intermediate small kind of telemetry disc which occasionally can be seen actually doing the drawing, but it must, one imagines, receive its power down a beam projected from much higher up. However, the UFO is not always invisible. On at least one occasion a UFO has been caught in the act of making a circle.

It was the first report of a circle in England in 1991 and came from Butleigh in Somerset. A local lad, Dave Harris, was riding his bicycle towards Butleigh when he heard a high-pitched humming near an avenue of cedar trees which crossed the road. Some 15 ft up over a field of very early wheat to his left he saw a slivery bell-shaped craft. It was stationary and below it a spiralling vortex of 'aura-like' light was making a circle in the crop. Harris was so astounded by what he saw that he rode his bike into the side of the road and fell off on to the grass verge. The craft subsequently flew away at high speed and, apart from the hum, there was, Harris said, just a swishing noise as it departed. The whole thing was over in a few seconds. All this had taken place in broad daylight around 6 p.m. on Sunday, 14 April 1991 (Good, 1992).

Harris's description of the light as 'aura-like' indicates that it was not brightly luminous or clear-cut. Ionized air formed about a beam of strong EM radiation could produce a diffuse light like an aura.

There was also the hum, which we can attribute to the skin waves in the magnetic shell surrounding the UFO playing on the surrounding air and so coming to Harris as a hum.

Other observations of UFOs in association with circles have occurred. Delgado and Andrews (1990) report that two pensioners, Pat and Jack Collins, were driving over Stockbridge Down in Hampshire on the evening of 6 July 1985 when they were extremely frightened by the appearance of a huge circular object standing on edge like a ferns wheel. It was stationary and hovering close to the ground some 200 yd from them. Yellow-white lights surrounded the rim of the object, while other lights formed spokes to the centre.

Groups of five crop circles were discovered the following morning near Alresford (12 miles east of Stockbridge) and at Goodworth Clatford (4H miles north of Stockbridge). A similar form of sighting was made near Warminster in August 1982 and again there were crop circles in the vicinity.

This form of sighting is very unusual and it is doubtful if these wheel-like devices were busy making the circles that were afterwards found in the vicinity. However, they might conceivably be 'mother craft' providing back-up for the smaller UFO doing the actual work.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR SPACE BROTHERS

Via Short Wave Radio

Lecture given by: Dr. George Hunt Williamson

Monday, June 21, 1954, Detroit, Michigan

from: Blue Resonant Human, Ph.D. <http://www.users.cts.com/sd/d/density4/index.html>

It is a great privilege and pleasure to be here in Detroit to speak to you on the subject of "flying saucers." The term "flying saucers" until very recently in the world has been more laugh provoking than it has been thought provoking. But now people all over the world are beginning to realize that this phenomenon known as the "flying saucers" may have a great bearing on the lives of each and every one of us in the not too distant future!

Tonight I will tell you of our own experiences with flying saucers. I also know of a number of men who have had various similar experiences. I was with George Adamski in November of 1952 when he had the memorable contact in the desert with the flying saucer. Both my wife and I were witnesses to that event. The event as it is described in the book entitled Flying Saucers Have Landed by Desmond Leslie and George Adamski is accurate and true. However, our work in flying saucers started long before our contact with Mr. Adamski. It was through our own work that we heard of him and eventually met him. We wondered what to do with the information we had collected and decided to go to see George Adamski who was only 400 miles away from us.

In the book Flying Saucers Have Landed, Mr. Adamski has several good pictures of saucers. The great astronomical observatories of the world also have pictures of saucers. I have a friend who went to school with one of the astronomers who is now working at the "Big Eye" (telescope) at Mount Palomar. Many times the students of various universities are allowed to spend time at the Big Observatory to work on certain projects. This friend of mine was at Mount Palomar and asked his former classmate, the astronomer, how it was that an amateur photographer like George Adamski could get pictures of saucers and Mount Palomar could not, and if Adamski's pictures were fake. The astronomer replied that Mr. Adamski's pictures were NOT fake and if he thought Adamski's pictures were good, he should see the ones they have at Mount Palomar.

The government has the story. They also have made radio contact with saucers. Whether they will ever give out this information or not we do not know. They may wait until we all know about it and then confirm it. There is a project known as MQ707 at Edwards Air Force Base which is a project for telecommunication with saucers. They contact these craft and attempt to get them to land.

In August 1952 we had our own contacts with space people via short wave or radio telegraphy. I had been in Minnesota a year or more previously where I was working among the Chippewa Indians gathering little known legends and facts about them that had not been accumulated or written down before. I knew nothing more about saucers than most people. There had been a few things in the newspapers and I had, of course, heard of flying saucers.

On the way to Minnesota I picked up a copy of Major Kehoe's first book Flying Saucers Are Real. When I arrived in Minnesota, it was raining and continued to rain for several days. I could not get out of my cabin so I read the book. Once I started it I could not put it down until I finished it. After I finished reading it I was thoroughly convinced myself that these things could at least be interplanetary. Here was a man, a former Marine Major, who had gone into the subject in an objective way and had analyzed all the facts and had come to the conclusion that they could not be anything else but something from outer space. In fact, I believe he mentioned in the book that it was hard for him to accept this and that it was fantastic, but that no other conclusion seemed to fit the evidence.

As I read this book, all the Indian legends I had been collecting seemed to fall into place, and I began to see that a number of the stories I had collected sounded like flying saucers. I checked with my wife who was doing work among the Mexican Indians and found she had been finding the same thing. On further investigation, we found that all American Indian tribes had practically the same legends. There were slight variations but they almost all had the same basic facts.

For a long time anthropologists had discarded Indian legends and the stories of so-called primitive people throughout the world because they said they were merely the stories of superstitious people and had no basis or fact. No longer are they doing this for they realize that there must be something to start a story and although these legends or stories were not written down as they did not have a written language, they were passed from generation to generation.

One of the Chippewa's legends is the account of the "Gin Gwin" or the "Earth-rumblers," or the "Wheels-that-rumble-the-earth." The story in essence is this: At various times a rotating wheel or whirling wheel, sometimes surrounded by a cloud, would descend and lightning would sometimes be seen to shoot from it. Then out of it would step a young fair-haired man whom they called "Bococitti," the fair-haired god who comes from the skies. Stories like these are found throughout the United States and in fact almost all primitive people throughout the world seem to have the same kind of legends.

After I left Minnesota, I joined my wife in Prescott, Arizona, where my family lives. A friend of mine, Alfred C. Bailey, came to visit me and asked to see what I had been accumulating on my recent trip. I did not mention saucers, but let him read some of the legends. When he finished reading the material I had collected, he said: "This sounds like flying saucers. I thought your trip was to collect legends of the Indians?"

We discussed the flying saucer phenomena and thought perhaps they might be weather conditions, for we would not be the first to observe weather conditions. The Indians would have seen the same things and perhaps made legends about them. We also talked about the possibility of man traveling to other planets by rockets. One of us suggested something with a lot of "ifs" in it. If in the future we of earth planned to go to another planet, and if we found it inhabited and if they had radio or some similar type of communication, why could we not monitor their radio and attempt to learn their language and find out about the culture of the inhabitants before we landed? We decided that perhaps if the other planets were inhabited and space people were visiting us that they might now be doing this very thing. Perhaps they might even be interested in contacting certain people on earth, people who were not afraid.

We were just discussing these possibilities and were really not too serious about it. We reasoned this way. If these people from outer space have been here since Kenneth Arnold first observed them in 1947, certainly they must know our language and our Morse Code communication system. By monitoring our radios they undoubtedly could pick up our language in a short period of time, as the Morse Code System is no secret and it is used daily throughout the world. However, we decided it was all too fantastic and we then dismissed the subject.

However, several weeks afterwards Al Bailey called me and said: "Remember what we were discussing about flying saucers? We have had success."

"What do you mean?" I asked, "Have you seen one?"

"No," he replied, "I do not mean that, I mean that we have made radio contact."

Then I asked the question that all of you would ask: "Is it a hoax?"

"Yes," he said, "The radio man thinks it is a hoax because he cannot figure out why they would contact a nobody like him. He wonders why they did not contact the government or Einstein."

I later asked the radio man: "How do you know they have not contacted the government?" He thought his might be a reasonable assumption. Regarding the messages we were receiving, the radio man suspected that they might be from another amateur. He noticed that the code was extremely loud and he had to turn his whole set almost completely off and the volume way down. He also noticed that the code was very fast. The radio man is not only a "ham" (amateur) operator but is also a commercially licensed operator with the Santa Fe Railroad in Arizona, and he has a reputation of being very fast on both receiving and sending. But he missed much of the messages we were receiving. He constantly asked them to slow down and they would slow down between words but not between letters. The words would come in very fast and then a long pause before the next word. He then began to realize that the messages could not be coming from another amateur. He then thought that if they were coming from earth they might be from communists in Mexico. This was a poor idea and he did not keep this idea too long, but he thought possibly they might be communists in Mexico preparing for a landing, and when they landed we would greet them in friendship and out would come the Russians. He thought it might be a plan preliminary to an atomic bomb attack to cause panic. However, he dismissed that idea very quickly.

His ham radio shack in his backyard was separated into two sections. One part was where he did repair work and the other part contained his radio set. He did technical work for the Santa Fe Railroad and also for police radios. He noticed that if he was at his work bench, the saucer people would come in and give a preliminary warning before giving the message and when he got to the set the message would start. The warning was in the form of a couple of preliminary beats. However, if he was already at the set they never gave this preliminary warning. This gave him a very strange feeling for they seemed to know whether he was at the radio equipment or not. The messages were received in international Morse Code. One time we had radio telephone contact with the space people but the rest of the time it was radio telegraphy.

The radio man decided to run some sort of a test and told them he was operating at a disadvantage because they knew who he was but he did not know who they were.

He asked: "As you have made this contact you must be interested in us. Therefore will you give us some type of assurance so that we can know that you are who you say you are?"

They replied immediately, and said: "Yes, yes. If you will get a glass we will be by Solus at high time tomorrow."

We took that to mean that if we would get a telescope they would be by the sun at noon the next day. We did not have a telescope and did not know exactly what they meant by being "by the sun." I went out the next day and looked up at the blazing sun, but of course did not see anything. However, that evening the newscast coming up from Phoenix, Arizona at 5:45 p.m. announced that a large fleet of the so called "flying saucers" had been sighted around noon that day. This could have meant something but we did not want to jump at conclusions and decided to wait until something else developed.

The next day the Los Angeles Times reported that Mount Wilson Observatory in the middle part of the previous day had observed tremendous sun spots suddenly appear on the sun. Now there is nothing unusual about sun spots on the sun, except that this was a period of declining sun spot activity. There should not be any sun spots at least not large ones, and instead of their lasting the usual two-week to thirty-day period these sun spots lasted only one day. We do not know if there is any connection or not, or if this is just a strange coincidence.

I would like to mention that I am not a technical man. One of the reasons anthropology appealed to me was that I did not have to take mathematics. It is said that the men go into anthropology because they do not have to take mathematics, and the women go into it because there are men in it! Now what I tell you as we get into more scientific terminology this evening is for you to accept or reject. I am not going to inject any of my own opinions or ideas for I am sure you are not interested in my opinions. However, I do feel that the experiences that I have had and the experiences of others with flying saucers should be told.

We were very much interested in our radio contacts and wanted to find out if it was all true. The radio man decided to run a test. He was on 40 meters and asked a question and got an immediate answer. Then very quickly he switched to 160 meters and asked another question and the answer came in promptly. The 40 meters that he was going to switch to 160 meters the man would not have had time to find him and therefore could not have heard the question and could not have answered it. That was one of the first tests he made. Then one night a cousin of his visited him while he was in communication with another ham. He did not mention saucers to the cousin but they heard a strange buzzing sound outside. He has a fluorescent tube on the outside of his shack and when he is sending messages it flashes on and off. He asked his cousin to go outside and see if there was anything wrong. The cousin did and called to him to come outside quickly.

"You might think I'm crazy but I think that there is one of those flying saucers," he said excitedly. Above the antenna a large orange disc was hovering but it soon took off at high speed. Then the radio man told his cousin what he had been doing in trying to establish radio contact. The radio man figured as long as they had contacted him by radio perhaps they would be willing to land in some remote area. He asked them and they replied they would be willing to land, it would just be another saucer sighting and there are hundreds of such sightings. Then the radio man made all the arrangements as to where we would go the next day to make the contact. He was to drive in one car, and we would follow him in our car.

That same evening the radio man's father-in-law came in from Tennessee. He was quite an elderly gentleman and was very senile and childish and could not keep his balance. He was really a sick man. The radio man had finished transmitting for the evening when his daughter came into the shack and told us that she had quite a problem as to what to do about the elderly gentleman. She felt they should not take him with them on the trip in which they hoped to contact the space people and she felt she could not leave him alone. If she took him on the trip and he saw something unusual he might have a heart attack and certainly she could not tell him that she was going out to contact a man from another world. Also, she was afraid that if they saw him they might not want to land. We discussed this problem for at least an hour and we were not attempting any experiment in mental telepathy or anything like that, it never entered our minds. The receiver was on as always and all at once a message came in which said: "Now, about the father." Believe me I think my hair stood on end when I looked over the radio man's shoulder and saw what he was writing. The radio man turned around looking very pale and said: "Believe me if I ever doubted, I do not now, because this is impossible but it is happening before my very eyes." These space people told us about the old man's condition, which was verified later by a doctor. They also said there was a saline solution by the bed which was hampering the contact and asked that someone remove it and clean it up. The daughter went inside and found the solution. She came back looking very pale also. The space people seemed to know everything that went on in the ham shack and in the house. This message in connection with the elderly gentleman was the longest and I feel that it was the most significant message we received. But they said it would be all right for us to take him with us the next day. Their parting sentence was: "Never fear the aged for they can help when they are brought back into life again."

THE HIDDEN UNITY and BEGINNINGS

The Hidden Unity looks at the strange phenomenon of subconscious siting of ley points, and notes that places of worship, of all religions and all ages, tend to predominate on leys. The environmental and philosophical implications of this are discussed, and the apparent necessity of worship but irrelevance of doctrine. Two ley centres are given as examples, and investigated in depth - the Shah Jehan Mosque in Woking and the Guru Nanak Sikh Temple, Scunthorpe. There is an appendix by Eileen Grimshaw on the significance of the Pagan religion to this study. Illustrated with photographs, maps and line drawings.

Beginnings is about a series of potentially useful discoveries, mainly made by Jimmy Goddard over a period of about twenty years, but having some overlap with discoveries made by others. For various reasons, the investigations are all in their early stages, and some have not been continued. They include earth energy detection, natural antigravity, subconscious siting, ley width, and the solar transition effect. There is also a chapter on cognitive dissonance - a psychological factor which seems to have been at the root of all bigotry - scientific, religious and other - down the ages. The booklet is concluded with an account of the discovery of leys by Alfred Watkins.

EARTH PEOPLE, SPACE PEOPLE

In 1961, Tony Wedd produced a manuscript Earth Men, Space Men, detailing many claims of extraterrestrial contact. It was never published, and the MS is presumably lost. To try to make up for the loss in a much more modest size, this booklet has been prepared. As well as giving details of some of the more prominent contact claims, there are articles on the history of the STAR Fellowship and some of its personalities, evidence for life in the Solar System and investigation into extraterrestrial language.

Each booklet is £2 plus 30p p&p from the Amskaya address.
